What did you think about the idea of connecting the dots of our faith by finding places to put it in practice?

Where can you try to connect the dots of your faith?

What does being an intentional Christian look like in your life?